BATMAN'S GOT A GRUDGE

Comic-Con 2015 was dominated by Batman, with next year's biggest blockbuster sounding better than ever...

t might be the sequel to the Man Of Steel movie, but you wouldn't have guessed it based on events at Comic-Con last week, where Ben Affleck's Batman stole the show with several exciting reveals ahead of the release of Batman vs Superman: Dawn Of Justice next March. Here's the latest info.

The darkest Batman yet

Judging by some of Affleck's comments, we're getting the bleakest Batman movie ever made: "He's at the end of his run and maybe the end of his life. There's this sort of worldweariness to it, as if he's on the verge of being swallowed up by the anger and the rage we see haunt him."

Bruce is angry

Bruce Wayne's got a bone to pick with Supes. Affleck says, "One of the things I liked [in Man Of Steel] was the idea of showing accountability and the consequences of violence and seeing there are real people in those buildings. In fact, one was Bruce Wayne's, so he knew people who died in that event."

He's going solo

Ben Affleck, best known for directing the Oscar-winning film Argo and the Oscar-nominated The Town, will next turn his attentions to write, direct and act in his very own solo Batman adventure following Batman vs Superman.

Stevie G makes his MLS debut for LA Galaxy against San Jose Earthquakes on 18 July, but most people in California still have little clue who he is. So, here's ZOO's helpful guide...

He's a former England soccer captain

So no, he's not won much

But he never won this

Although he did win this

Despite almost joining him

He once said, "we don't let this slip"

But he's still a legend

And then this happened

And no this is not him. This is Robbie Keane, your striker

Make the difference!

Want the opportunity to travel the world, feel rewarded and earn a wage while doing it? Then the Royal Air Force has something right up your street...

I, BEN. WHAT IS YOUR ROLE WITHIN THE RAF? I'm a vehicle and mechanical equipment technician, working on a wide variety of different specialist airfield vehicles and equipment. WHAT TYPES OF EQUIPMENT

ARE YOU WORKING ON?

Anything from fire engines to generators, lighting sets to powered aircraft air conditioning units. It's very varied and diverse!

WHAT OPPORTUNITIES DO YOU HAVE FOR SPORT?

It's very good. We do circuits every week, and you can represent the RAF in a specific sport. I enjoy running, general fitness and going to the gym. At the moment, there's one gym session a week where you're free to do what you like. Then there's one team circuit as an entire section. These can vary from full-body workouts to boxercise to a game of football.

WHAT OPPORTUNITIES HAVE YOU HAD TO TRAVEL?

Within the role, there are plenty of global detachments to various countries. It's all doing the same job, but in new environments. There are also exercises, where we support aircraft squadrons, and I've been to the United Arab Emirates, Kenya, Norway, Oman and Cyprus. Operational detachments and exercises are very demanding, as there are many distractions, which means constant pressure to ensure everything is serviceable. But that's the kind of challenge that I thrive on.

HOW WOULD YOU DESCRIBE THE LIFESTYLE?

It's excellent. We're all in the same boat, so you've always got people to go down to the bar or the gym, or play sport with. The social side is incredible. There's always something going on and plenty to do.

I'm from Wales, so where I'm based now is a few hours away. The majority of weekends I'm off though, so I get to travel back to see all my family and friends. There's a nice balance.

WHAT QUALIFICATIONS HAVE YOU GAINED WHILE EARNING A WAGE?

In my trade, I've gained an NVQ Level 3 in Heavy Vehicle Maintenance, covering vast topics from engines and hydraulics to air-breaking systems. That was over a period of 18 months. The specialist qualifications are extremely useful.

WHAT IS THE OUTSTANDING HIGHLIGHT OF YOUR CAREER SO FAR?

Travelling. I enjoy my job in the UK, but when you go away it really feels like you're playing a big part in the grand scheme of things. Everything makes a difference. If you perform, aeroplanes fly and vehicles run smoothly, which is very rewarding.

WHAT ARE YOUR TOP TIPS FOR JOINING THE RAF AS A NEW RECRUIT OR APPRENTICE?

Keep an open mind and embrace it. There are many opportunities for travel and sport, and the social side is fantastic.

Get stuck in and make the most of it!

OF GREAT MEMORIES FROM HANGING OUT WITH THE JACKASSLOT ...

Oh, definitely. I loved the Sweaty Fat F**ks stunt we did in the fat suits. That was so much more difficult to skate in than I anticipated. They wrap you in bubble wrap, so you've no flexibility each other to work it out. That was seriously friahtenina!

WILL WE SEE YOU DOING A FEW TRICKS ON A BORIS BIKE NEXT TIME YOU'RE IN LONDON?

I've seen those and there's no way you'll see me on one doing flips! It is frightening enough on a custom bike, let alone one of them!

eeing as Abu Dhabi has more millionaires than a summer garden party round Sheikh Mansour's, it stands to reason that the police need some fast wheels to help apprehend all those rich people no doubt breaking the law in their supercars.

That's why the police in the capital of the United Arab Emirates have just unveiled their new (not so) secret weapon: a Lykan HyperSport, which flies out of the traps reaching 62mph in a criminal-catching speed of just 2.8 seconds.

However, that's not even the interesting part, because the £2million hypercar - made famous by the recent Fast & Furious 7 movie also features a unique surveillance system, which would easily rival film icon RoboCop.

The state-of-the-art speedster has a camera system on the roof that not only reads number plates of stolen vehicles at speeds of up to 245mph, but can also scan people's faces, issue tickets and then relay all of this information back to a central hub.

Millionaires of Abu Dhabi be warned: you better come quietly... or there will be trouble!

IN NEED OF A HAYEMAKER THIS WEEK... NICK KYRGIOS

The up-and-coming Aussie star set his stall out as the new bad boy of tennis at Wimbledon. In between his antics (arguing with line judges, effing and blinding, giving away points) he actually played pretty well.

He'll probably have all the controversycourting brands lining up to do deals with him now – but it all seemed premeditated.

Rory's foul play

Rory McIlroy will be the first champion not to defend his title at The Open since 1954, and all because of a five-a-side game of football. That's exactly why sportsmen should stick to their field of expertise!

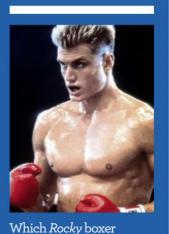

When you're finely tuned to a specific sport, the risk of injury playing something else is too high. You wouldn't get far in an F1 car around your town centre because they're designed for the racetrack. The same goes for athletes.

Ronaldo by the numbers

What a perfect gentleman Cristiano Ronaldo is! I had to chuckle when I saw the story about him finding a beautiful young lady's phone in Las Vegas and not only returning it, but taking her and her other beautiful friends out to dinner to reunite her with it.

It was the decent thing to do and purely coincidental that she is an absolute stunner and probably had a hot picture of herself as the screensaver on her blower...

ASK DAVID!

would you most like to face for real? DON HILL, via Twitter The hardest match-up would be Ivan Drago from Rocky IV. He reminds me most of Wladimir Klitschko. But Tony Bellew looks good in the trailer for Creed, so I can't wait to see if he'll give Drago a run for his rubles...

Klitschko vs Fury

Wladimir Klitschko vs Tyson Fury is on for 24 October in Dusseldorf, and Fury reckons it's going to be the "best fight in heavyweight history". Maybe if they get a strong referee it will be, otherwise it will go the same way as every one of Wladimir's other fights.

Fury's chances of shocking the world are slim, because the best opponent he has faced in his last 10 fights is Dereck Chisora: it's not great preparation. But if he's as good as he says he is, he should knock Wlad out in one round...

IW.Zootoďay.com (7

he year 2020 is going to be massive for the automotive industry.

Not only is it the date we are due to see autonomous vehicles on our roads, it could also be the year BMW unchains this hydrogen-powered monster.

The eDrive hydrogen fuel cell test vehicle, pictured here, is based on the current i8 but features carbon-fibre bodywork to keep the weight down, a Mad Max-inspired aero kit, and favours hydrogen fuel cell stacks over the typical 1.5-litre, three-cylinder petrol engine.

And if, like us, you're uncontrollably salivating over the mad angular styling, you'll be interested to know it's not just for show. The gaping front end is designed to suck in oxygen so it can mix with hydrogen, stored in tanks that run along the centre of the car, to create lovely electricity.

That juice then powers the electric motor, which develops 243bhp, although it is said to be able to travel around 300 miles on a single tank, with the only emissions from the tailpipes being water. Better still, there's none of the waiting around associated with charging plug-in vehicles, as the hydrogen re-fuel time is slated at around five minutes.

Unfortunately, it's unlikely we'll see the Dark Knight's runaround on roads anytime soon. But hang on until 2020, and we're pretty sure you won't be disappointed.

Mercedes goes tech mental!

Teutonic tech face-off!

ZOO was lucky enough to go behind the scenes at one of Mercedes' top-secret testing facilities to learn about its upcoming E-Class.

In true James Bond style, the latest incarnation will park itself, first discovering a space thanks to on-board cameras and sensors, and then guiding itself into a spot while the driver swipes a special smartphone app.

That same smartphone can also use built-in near-field communication technology to lock and unlock the doors simply by holding it near the handles, while improved safety functions mean the car will now detect a smash and tighten the seatbelts in preparation or activate the belt-mounted airbags. Better still, the advanced sensors, radars and cameras are one step away from autonomous driving, meaning they are able to detect traffic jams and apply the brakes should you nod off behind the wheel.

Drivers can also slip on the cruise control and the car will keep in lane – even if road markings have worn away – and keep up with any stop/start traffic further ahead.

You have to keep your hands on the wheel for the time being, but don't be surprised if your Mercedes does the driving in the near future.

Become a ZOO legend by sending in your best pics and general madness!

We know what you're thinking. You've seen every Marvel superhero you can think of, so how could an ant possibly blow your mind? You'd be surprised... Scott Lang (Paul Rudd) is a skilled cat burglar, desperate to make some money properly and do right by his daughter.

But when he breaks into the home of Dr Hank Pym (Michael Douglas), he stumbles upon the best way to alleviate his monetary problems: shrink to minute size, defeat baddie Darren Cross (House of Cards' Corey Stoll) and get out unscathed. But in true Marvel style, there is a heap-load of explosions, outstanding fight scenes and Avengers cameos standing in the way.

With nice guy Rudd providing laughs aplenty, this is a f-ant-astic way to spend a Sunday afternoon. ★★★★☆

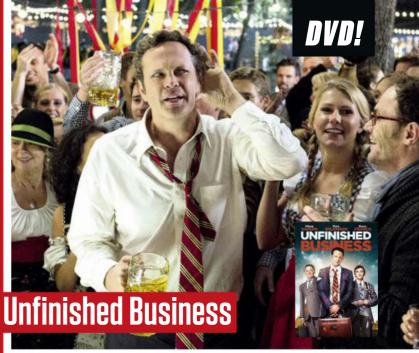

Steve is more than just a little bit naughty at college, getting kicked out for beating up teachers and calling them some very unscholarly names.

And when no other college is willing to take him on, he's forced to return home to his

Powerful and occasionally unwatchable, this hard-hitting French-Canadian flick will chill you to the bone. ★★★★☆

Dan Trunkman (Vince Vaughn), a retiring associate (Tom Wilkinson) and a dim-witted sales applicant (Dave Franco) share a weird and whacky Euro trip to get one over their ex-boss - but it's all come about 10 years too late.

The comedy is perfect for the Wedding Crashers generation, padded out with bizarre exploits like parties full of topless girls. Still, as a piece of post-hangover popcorn fodder, you couldn't ask for a lot more. *****

UP:SUM AND A

If ever you wanted a clear indication of the benefits of a game developer putting all its efforts into making PS4 and Xbox One titles - and not wasting time with older consoles - then this is it.

Visually, F1 2015 has come on leaps and bounds since the last outing, and the handling feels much more refined. Not too realistic that it sucks the fun from the game, but also not too arcade-y so that it becomes all too easy.

The only real misstep is Codemasters' decision to remove a career mode, allowing players to create their own driver and progress through seasons as well as joining other teams based on their performances.

It's never going to be a game for everyone, but it's a definite step in the right direction for the series and one F1 enthusiasts should happily enter the pits for. ★★★☆☆

EY, PAUL! IN YOUR NEW FILM,
YOU'RE WORKING
ALONGSIDE A LOT
OF ANTS... DID
THIS GIVE YOU
A NEWFOUND RESPECT FOR THE LITTLE FELLAS?

Actually, it did! I'm not trying to sound cute or anything, but even last week I was standing by the sink and some ants started walking towards the coffee maker as I was making coffee. Maybe pre-Ant-Man, I would've just brushed them out of the way. Now, I absolutely let them do what they wanna do, and I stand back. They had full control of the kitchen! YOUR CHARACTER (SCOTT LANG) HAS TO TRY TO COMMUNICATE WITH THE LITTLE INSECTS TO MAKE THEM DO WHAT HE WANTS. DID YOU TRY TO GET THEM TO MAKE YOU THAT COFFEE?

Ha, of course. I took all of that home with me. Sadly, ants don't have the capacity to make coffee. Shocking, huh?

IN TERMS OF CREATING THE FILM, THERE WAS ONCE A TIME HOT
FUZZ'S EDGAR WRIGHT
PLANNED TO DIRECT.
IS THIS VERSION
DIFFERENT TO
THE ONE HE'D STARTED?

I think it's fair to say none of us would be here – and there might not even be an Ant-Man movie – if it weren't for Edgar. Most of the film's ideas were his. By the time I started rewrites, it was more a case of taking what existed and then adding more. Edgar Wright is part of the film's DNA.

YOU'RE FAMOUS FOR PLAYING FUNNY BLOKES EVERYONE RELATES TO.
IS IT TRICKY TO GET INTO

A SUPERHERO MINDSET? It wasn't tricky at all actually:

"ANTS NOW CONTROL MY KITCHEN!"

I'm still the funny guy men can relate to! I loved the idea that every dumb thing Scott did was actually all for his daughter. That's believable and we took that straight from the comic itself. We tried to stay true to the original Marvel story and never veered too far from that.

WERE YOU A COMIC BOOK NERD GROWING UP?

Ha, I really wasn't! I mean, don't get me wrong, I would occasionally pick up a comic book – some were terrible – but I was a very casual reader. I was into The Hulk for a bit, primarily because of the TV show, and some Marvel superhero comics. But I read more English comics, actually. REALLY?

RUDD AS SCOTT LANG!

Yeah! My aunt lives in Great Britain and would send me the Beano and Dandy, so I grew up with characters like Desperate Dan and Roger the Dodger. I've probably read those more than Marvel comics!

YOU'VE SWAPPED FLAB FOR ABS. HOW DID YOU MANAGE IT?

I literally didn't do anything fun for an entire year. Carbs and sugar were off limits and I was miserable to be around.
I didn't even drink any alcohol!
IT MUST'VE BEEN QUITE DIFFERENT ON SET
COMPARED TO ROLES
ALONGSIDE SETH ROGEN
AND WILL FERRELL...

Sure, but I got to meet Iron Man in person! And Captain America! That was so weird. It helped make this whole Marvel thing more real. We were shooting in a bubble, using our imagination, so when I saw the other superheroes I was star-struck. I think I actually said "oh my God" out loud!

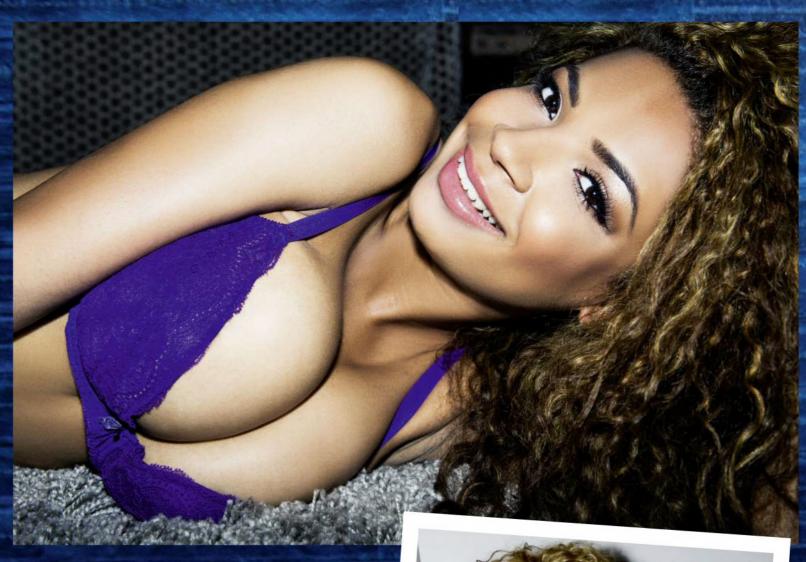

AN INSECT FOR A DAY,
WHAT WOULD YOU BE?
Probably a firefly,
brightening people's days!
God, that's cheesy...

FEEL LIKE TO BE TAKING PART IN YOUR FIRST-EVER ZOO SHOOT?

I've had so much fun! There's a heatwave outside, and I can tell you it's really hot. I'm just gutted I didn't get to shoot in the pool, but then again I've just dyed my hair blonde. I wouldn't want it going green from the chlorine!

YOU CERTAINLY SEEM TO LOVE MODELLING...

It doesn't feel like work. It's such a good pick-me-up and one of the best pastimes a girl can have. You feel happy and confident once a shoot is done. ARE YOU A BIG ZOO FAN? I absolutely love reading the features with my mates in! I really enjoyed Ellis Attard's shoot. She's really hot and it's true – she really can down a pint quicker than the blokes!

IF WE GOT ONE OF YOUR CLOSE MATES TO DESCRIBE YOU, WHAT WOULD THEY SAY?

That I'm really funny. Not intentionally, but they'll laugh at me for doing silly things. I'm often away with the fairies, and I'm always having a blonde moment or two. I've walked out of the front door with my T-shirt inside out before...

OK, WHAT'S THE MOST EMBARRASSING THING YOU'VE EVER DONE?

I was on a shoot the other day and I walked out with my tights and suspenders the wrong way round. I just wanted the ground to open up and swallow me whole.

WE'LL LEAVE IT THERE, THEN! ARE YOU A PUB OR CLUB GIRL?

Oh my God - as long as they serve the drinks I like, it doesn't matter! I'd happily sit in a pub downing Desperados, but then I love dancing with my friends, even if we are terrible dancers.

THE BEST, BIGGEST AND FUNNIEST STORI

couldn't wait get punched the head again!"

After foiling a burglary in his neighbour's house — and being whacked over the head with a concrete slab for his troubles - Anthony Crolla details his journey back to the big time

Heartbroken in hospital

"I fractured my skull and broke my ankle, so I was in quite a bit of pain. But missing out on the world title shot I had lined up hurt much more. I was lying in the hospital heartbroken because it's what I had dreamed of since I first laced up a pair of gloves as a little kid."

Going mad in the house

"Being housebound and off my feet was the hardest part for me. I was climbing the walls. It was Christmas time, but I should have been in the gym every day – even Christmas Day! There are only so many selection boxes you can eat. I couldn't bring myself to watch any boxing either, otherwise I would have completely lost it."

Sir Alex's call saved me

"Then, Sir Alex Ferguson called me. I thought it was a wind-up at first, but after he kept talking I realised it really was him. I was feeling pretty low at the time, so getting that call was a massive boost. After that, Wayne Rooney sent me a signed shirt from all the players. As a huge Manchester United fan, that blew me away!"

Getting the all-clear

"Having a fractured skull is not the best injury for a boxer. I had to see one of the top neurosurgeons in the country, which was a very nervous time because the results had to be sent off to the British Boxing Board Of Control. Getting the all-clear was a huge weight off my shoulders."

Sparring Scott Quigg

"In a strange way, I actually looked forward to getting punched in the head again. The first person I sparred when I got back into the gym was super bantamweight world champion Scott Quigg. He would never go easy, so it was straight back in at the deep end. You worry if there'll be any after-effects from the injury, but once I got hit and there weren't any problems, I knew I was fine."

Old ladies love me

"I always say I'm not a hero, it was just the right thing to do. There are better ways to raise your profile than getting hit on the head with a concrete slab, but the support I've received has been overwhelming. Even little old ladies stop me in the street to praise meand promise to watch my next fight!"

Grolla takes a big shot!

World title payback

"This is an opportunity I thought would never happen again, so I plan on taking it with both hands. Darleys Perez is a good fighter with a good pedigree as an Olympian in his amateur days. It will take a career best performance to win, but I'll use the Manchester crowd to my advantage and repay all the people who supported me."

"Frampton ran to America to avoid me!"

WBA super bantamweight champion Scott Quigg talks facing Kiko Martinez and the real reason Carl Frampton headed Stateside...

HI, SCOTT. AFTER YOUR BIG MONEY OFFER BACK IN APRIL, HOW DISAPPOINTED ARE YOU NOT TO BE FACING CARL FRAMPTON THIS WEEKEND?

It's OK - Frampton's team had to make that move to go over to America because he has run out of options over here other than face me. But I'm confident that after I've dealt with Kiko Martinez, we can finally get it on.

IS THE AIM TO BEAT KIKO IN MORE DEVASTATING FASHION THAN CARL DID?

It's a fight that we want to go out and make a real statement in and silence our critics. So yes, I'm planning to go out there and do a number on Kiko.

SHOULD WE BE EXPECTING A SLUGFEST, THEN?

Well, I'm certainly expecting Kiko to come out all guns blazing from the off, but he will get a massive shock when I return fire. He doesn't like being backed up and that's #### something I will do throughout. IS HE STILL THE SAME FIGHTER AFTER THE LOSSES HE SUFFERED TO THE JACKAL?

Kiko's experience, knowledge and ability has improved dramatically over the years. He knows how and when to apply educated pressure, rather than fight like a headless chicken.

AFTER THE FIGHT, WILL YOU STAY UP TO WATCH FRAMPTON'S AMERICAN DEBUT?

To be honest, people have criticised the opponents I've faced over the years. No disrespect to the guy Frampton is fighting, but I'd never heard of him so we'll have to see had to go to El Paso. Boxing is a sport for the working class and working class people are not getting to see it because it's being hidden away on satellite channels.

Mental disintegration

One of the main factors in Tiger's fall from grace could be hidden in the fact he now buckles under pressure, says golfing great Sir Nick Faldo. "The mind game puts him under pressure and then the tempo different. And when Tiger is under pressure, his swing goes at a completely different speed, he doesn't like taking on certain shots and he's unable to deal with them,"

Since Tiger last won the The Open Championship in 2006, he has gained a serious amount of muscle, forcing his swing to change. Haney pinpoints this as a vital component in his demise. "He looks like he's gained more muscle mass. When he was thinner and younger, he swung faster."

The dreaded "vins"

Having constantly reworked his swing in a bid for perfection, Tiger just can't seem to get it right. Ex-coach Hank Haney blames the dreaded yip: the loss of fine motor skills without explanation. "If you've had the yips – and I have, for more than 20 years - you know what you're seeing when you watch Tiger hit those short shots.

Lack of passion

According to his best friend Notah Begay, he's lost his hunger. "I think the challenge here is motivation. He's won 14 Majors, he beat everybody, everywhere around the world, and it's tough to find motivation to just get up and go out and do it again."

Boredom

All of Woods' 14 Majors have been masterminded by coaches Butch Harmon and Haney. Since their departure, Woods has failed to secure a single Major. The American commentator Brandel Chamblee said, "If Tiger had stayed with Harmon, and hadn't left out of petty differences and boredom, he would have broken Jack Nicklaus' record of 17 Majors."

The Media Centre

No, this isn't a spaceship. This is the media centre, a £5m award-winning structure by the now-defunct Future Systems, which stands the same height as the Lord's pavilion and fits 100 "Pommie" journalists trying to find new ways to explain Mitchell Johnson's facial hair. On the second level is the Sky Sports retirement home for ex-England captains, while in the Test Match Special studio, you'll find a strange old Northern bloke moaning about his "grandmother's forward defensive". Don't worry - that is just Sir Geoffrey

MCC members

These strange old men in blazers, bacon and egg ties, boaters and cravats are actually members of the Marylebone Cricket Club - who own the whole ground (and probably most of London). Chances are they're a QC, member of the House Of Lords, the Archduke Of Devon or something. In fact, their great-grandfathers were probably involved in sending your extended family Down Under. Usually spotted on the pavilion benches, dozing or reading a broadsheet, which proves they're the biggest cricket fans around. Membership allows them use of the Long Room bar and even the loos in the Aussie dressing room!

The Barmy Army

England's most vocal fans, usually found anywhere other than the pavilion. A collection of beer enthusiasts who have cleverly written new lyrics to Waltzing Matilda. Tend to start the day quietly, before lifting the spirits of the crowd later on after partaking in a few beverages. They fill the minutes between overs creating snakes out of plastic beer glasses - probably because they finished The Times crossword at lunch. The guy deafening you with the trumpet is Billy Cooper (aka Billy the Trumpet), the most famous member of the Barmy Army, who you booted out of the Gabba in 2009 for playing the Neighbours theme tune.

Old Father Time

A 90-year-old weathervane that has watched over the action at Lord's since it was gifted to the ground in 1926. The 6ft 6in figure - that's 1in taller than Stuart Broad - has not been without its scrapes: having barely survived the Blitz. Father Time was bowled over by high winds in March 2015.

both teams' dressing rooms, as well as MCC members. The most famous room would be the Long Room, which the players have to walk through in order to reach the pitch. Prepare for a light smattering of applause or polite banter fit for the Queen's company. The most entertaining feature of the pavilion is the daily "Donkey Derby", where MCC members race for a spot in the unreserved seating outside or be forced to view the day's action from inside the pavilion. Exbowler, Simon Jones, said, "It's quite a sight when it happens, because there's usually a couple of fallers!"

FIVE THINGS WE EARNED FROM THE FIRST TE

MOEEN IS THE MAN!

The Aussies definitely need to fear the beard. All-rounder Ali's place was in question, but he added some very important late order runs and then spun his way to some vital wickets, including that of the "World's No1 batsman", Steve Smith.

HAIR ADJUSTMENT

With former captain and Aussie hero Ricky Ponting turning up for a commentary role on Sky Sports this summer, there was a noticeable difference in hair colour to when we last saw him in the 2011 Ashes. He must have taken some tips off of his old mate, "Bowling, Shane" Warne.

DISAPPEARED

Jimmy Anderson may have wanted a sledge-free Ashes summer, but that certainly hasn't been the case, as we saw with Mitchell Starc's "shushing gesture after clean bowling Ben Stokes

FIELDERS SHOULD CONSIDER WEARING

A BOX...
After Alastair Cook's unfortunate incident which saw the ball ricochet from the pitch into his crown jewels – much to the amusement of Joe Root – players should definitely consider wearing a box more often.

ORDER

Joe Root and the middle order won't always be able to come to the rescue, so it's time for Alastair Cook and Adam Lyth to step up to the plate and score some early runs. Between them, the openers have only managed 75 runs, which will have to change if England want to win the urn.

ELCOME BACK,

YEARS AGO. WHY HAS IT TAKEN SO LONG?

I've been dying to fight back here for a long time, but I've just been busy kicking arse all over the world. I told Dana White I wanted to fight on the Scotland card and here I am.

WHAT DO YOU EXPECT THE GLASWEGIAN CROWD TO BE LIKE?

I'm expecting it to be the loudest crowd the UFC has ever heard. I'm sick of hearing about these fighting Irish or passionate Brazilians. F**k them! Let's blow the roof off and show them that we deserve the big fights.

HAVING FOUGHT AROUND THE WORLD, ARE BRITISH FANS STILL THE BEST?

I've fought in front of them more than anybody so I know first-hand they're the best in the world. I'm undefeated in the UK because of their support. It pushes me to the next level and helps me fight through the adversity. When I hear that crowd roar in my favour there isn't a man on this planet who can beat me.

"Frank will score more than Stevie!"

With Frank Lampard having started his American adventure, we caught up with the one man who always knew he would go "right to the very top"

ELLO, HARRY. YOU PREDICTED FRANK WOULD BECOME A TOP PLAYER, BUT DID YOU EVER THINK HE'D FOLLOW IN YOUR FOOTSTEPS AND GO TO AMERICA?

I didn't expect him to go to the MLS but obviously he's done everything he needs to do in England and it's a big, new adventure. Living in New York isn't a bad lifestyle, is it?

DID YOU EVEN THINK HE'D ACHIEVE ALL HE HAS?

Yes, because he trains harder than anyone I've ever seen by a million miles. He has more drive and determination than anyone else I've ever met in football - actually, more than anyone I've ever come across.

HOW GOOD IS IT THAT HE'LL BE CONTINUING HIS RIVALRY WITH STEVEN GERRARD IN THE MLS?

I'm sure it'll be interesting for people over there to see them. Frank will score more goals than Stevie and that's probably what they'll get judged on, but they're both fantastic midfielders.

WHO'S GOT THE BETTER DEAL: NEW YORK CITY FC OR LA GALAXY?

They're different players, I couldn't pick one over the other as I love them both too much. I never agreed with that rubbish that they couldn't play together. Of course they could, you just had to know what you wanted from the pair of them. HOW STRONG IS THE MLS?

REDKNAPP TALKS TO

With the money there and the lifestyle it offers, I think in the next 20 years you're going to start seeing the top players going there in their prime.
